

Business philosophy

Today, the business is managed by the grandchildren Salvo and Fabio who, with the support of their parents Santo and Nina, have widened the family horizons: in 2000 a new Country House Casa Arrigo was born, focused on providing a welcoming context and wine tasting opportunities of the organic products offered by Neri Agricola. In 2012 a new exclusive hotel, Villa Neri Resort & Spa, came to be: 24 rooms and 3 private lodges, a gourmet restaurant, wellness centre and an outdoors pool with salted water surrounded by a flourishing garden. In 2018, after having reclaimed a hectare of a 1 century-old vineyard and with the purchase of new land on more than seven hectares, the Neri family started the production of the organic Etna DOC wines.

The respect for the terroir – which contributes to the production of wines strictly connected to the territory and by many considered the Mediterranean Bourgogne – and a focus on sustainability represent the foundation of the philosophy for all the family businesses. A particular focus is given to the production of electricity, entirely sustained by a renewable energy plant and to the products' packaging.

The meticulous care given to the vineyards is consequence of the tradition that the Neri family has been handing down throughout generations, in the awareness that deep roots never die.
